NORTHWEST SCHOOLS.

From the latest telegrams it appears that there is a greater possibility of the school ordinance passed at the session of the assembly held in December of 1892 being disallowed, than was at first imagined. There is not in the wording or intent of the ordinance any real feasible grounds for its disallowance. It is strictly within the wording and intent of the Northwest Act. To hold law such an ordinance under such circumstances would simply be tantamount to nullifying what is written in it. If the present government chooses to put itself in that position their opponents certainly have no reason to wish them to remain doing so. On the straight issue, as herein set forth there can be no question as to how public opinion would view the suggested disallowance; but of course the straight issue would be avoided as far as possible and side issues introduced. What one of those side issues will be is now pretty generally understood. In an article on the subject appearing in the Montreal Witness of a recent date, which, if it was not written in Regina, showed an intimacy of acquaintance with the working of educational matters there, that was most creditable to the enterprise and accuracy of the Witness staff, it was plainly stated that "The real cause of the dissatisfaction has grown not out of the provisions of the law but out of its administration."

The particular act of administration to which objection is taken it appears is in relation to compulsory attendance of teachers at a normal school to be conducted from time to time at Regina. The project of a normal school for the professional training of persons who, having passed the necessary examinations in the Territories desired to enter upon the profession of teaching, was an old one, having been contemplated by the board of education under the former ordinance as well as by the council of public instruction under the present one. The idea was generally acceptable, but it never took shape under the board of education. It was taken up enthusiastically by the council of public instruction on its resuming office, and preparations were made to give it effect. The council in its enthusiasm decided not only to provide facilities within the Territories whereby prospective teachers could acquire professional training—to which point they had the support of every one, provided the expense was within bounds—but that unless teachers both present and prospective availed themselves of those facilities they would not be allowed to teach. The effect of such a regulation in a country of the area and under the conditions of the Territories could scarcely have been appreciated by the council who framed it. Under it teachers in employment, of high standing and long experience, were compelled to cancel current engagements in order to take advantage of the training so kindly provided for them at Regina. Many young women—and young men for that matter—who had passed the necessary examinations, and who were looking forward to employment during the current winter on next season as teachers, were cut out of the prospect by the great expense of attending the normal session, and in consequence a number of schools have been closed, the trustees of others have been put to great inconvenience, and in many cases the regulation has been ignored by the same council of public instruction that passed it. The very provision that was intended to assist the cause of education in the Territories, has been made a serious hindrance to it, as it could not help but be and as those who passed it must have known, or at least should have known. It is all very well to say "We have provided a school at Regina, for the accommodation of proposed teachers in the Northwest," but when attendance at that school involves an expenditure of from $100 to $150 or $200, when the nature of the teaching required in a majority of schools in the Territories is considered, and when the probable value of the training to be imparted at the supposed school is considered, it is an outrage on common sense to make attendance at such a school compulsory. If the normal school at Regina were of the standing of say that in Toronto, there might be some excuse for compelling attendance at it, particularly if it could be reached from all parts of the Territories as cheaply as the Toronto school can be reached from all parts of Ontario and if the teaching standard in the Territories were as high as that required in Ontario. But in a place where there are no roads, the demand of the Territorial council of public instruction is unreasonable. It may be altogether desirable to establish a normal school for teachers at some central point in the Territories, and the better the school the more reasonable it would be to allow teachers holding certificates from that school a percentage of advantage over those who had not availed themselves of the training or of the teaching of one of equal merit. A school of no greater account than that at Regina might very well be brought to that school instead of the teachers being compelled to go to it—that is to say, sessions might be held at central points in various districts in the Territories. It would thereby be brought within easy reach of all in their town. Particularly should this be done when attendance is made compulsory. The present arrangement simply bars out a majority of candidates throughout the Territories particularly in those parts distant from Regina from applying. The mischief derived when the cause of education in the Territories can be advanced by making a regulation whose enforcement—whatever its wording may be—means the closing of a very large proportion of the schools of the Territories. In its endeavor to elevate the standard of the schools of the Northwest, the council of public instruction has allowed its enthusiasm to run away with its judgment. What has been done in this connection by the council of public instruction was done without the knowledge or sanction of the Northwest assembly, and is, in the opinion of this paper a piece of intolerable bureaucratic impudence, if it is nothing worse.

As to the objection made by Roman Catholics, that the teaching sisters cannot under the rules of their order attend the normal sessions, and are therefore debarred from teaching by the regulation, the case is practically the same as with Protestants. If these ladies are not qualified teachers they should not be allowed to teach. But if they are qualified—and the council of public instruction can satisfy itself on that point through its highly paid, and more or less qualified inspectors—there is no reason why they should be compelled to incur unnecessary expenses or conform to impossible conditions, any more than other people.

It will indeed be too bad if the present valuable ordinance be disallowed on account of an action not contemplated in or by it, and which is as unnecessary as it is unsuited to the circumstances of the Territories.

TYRELL'S TRAVELS.

Winnipeg Tribune.
On Tuesday Mr. J. B. Tyrrell, geologist, and Mr. J. W. Tyrell, surveyor, arrived in the city from an eight months' trip in the north. They were seen last evening at the Manitoba by a Tribune reporter and gave some interesting incidents of their trip. They left Edmonton in May and drove to Athabasca landing where they put their canoes in the water and after a journey of 850 miles through a completely unexplored wilderness they drew these canoes up again for good on the shores of the Hudson's Bay. The route passed through Lake Athabasca to Black river and Black lake, then up an unnamed river flowing from the north. After a portage of a mile across the height of land they reached a lake the waters of which flow north. At this point all trees and fur bearing animals disappeared and no human beings were met with until on the shores of Hudson's Bay, when some Eskimos were found. These rivers and lakes, with waters flowing north and east, were followed through rolling country containing much swampy land and here and there rocky hills. Fish were abundant in the lakes, especially white fish and trout, and the party saw huge herds of reindeer; but there were no small animals or birds. There was nothing in the lakes and streams for wild food to feed on. The whole country is aptly termed a great lone wilderness. In the course of their journey north and east they skirted for a hundred miles the shore of a large lake supposed to be the legendary oval on the map marked Lake Doobaut. They reached this lake early in August and found the ice seven feet thick. They were able to make headway in the open water between the edge of the ice and the shore. During the greater part of the journey the constant presence of snow on the hillsides, though it was midsummer, testified to the fact that they were very far north. They were supposed to be in the land of the musk ox, but saw not a single specimen all summer, though they saw hundreds of thousands of reindeer. Had it not been for the latter, indeed, their expedition would have failed for lack of provisions. From Lake Doobaut they followed a chain of un-named lakes and rivers to Chesterfield Inlet, which was reached on September 10. They then skirted down the coast in their canoes until within thirty miles of Churchill, when on October 16 the ice along the shore got too heavy for them to push through any longer and they were compelled to drag the canoes overland to the factory. They then proceeded south by dog train via York Factory, Oxford and Norway House, reaching Selkirk on Monday last. The party consisted altogether of eight. Beside Mr. J. B. Tyrrell and his brother there were three Iroquois Indians from Caughnawaga from near Montreal, and three others from near Prince Albert. No local Indians would go with them across the height of land north of Black lake as they professed the fear of being eaten by the Eskimos. Mr. Tyrrell thinks the country will be utterly valueless unless some of the precious metals are found there.

LEDUC LEVITIES.

The close of 1893 and the dawning of 1894 have been marked by a new feature in the history of Leduc. The few solitary individuals who hitherto passed in tranquil solitude the better season of the glad new year reflecting with regret upon past joy shared with distant friends can no longer exclaim: "Far from the madding words ignoble strife."

"Sister wishes never learn to stray."

For since the advent of Christmas the dulcet strains of the violin have awokened the midnight echoes from their pristine slumbers, and many a hardy Leducian with his fair and gentle partner tripped the light fantastic toe. R. T. Telford set the ball rolling by inviting Messrs. Douglas and Casault over to a turkey feed on Christmas Day. They proved they were no laggards at that business, and along with other invited guests did ample justice to Mr. Telford's hospitality and the culinary accomplishments of his fair spouse.

Christmas night the neighbors gathered around John T. Ring's and indulged in a right down good old country hop. Mr. and Mrs. Ring received their guests with good old-fashioned kindly welcome. After spending a very pleasant time the happy revellers repaired to their homes in the "wee sma' hours" singing "Auld Lang Syne."

Mr. Telford was not to be outdone in his efforts to enhance the sociability of Leduc; for on the 28th he gave the ball of the season; he scattered invitations right and left and threw open his doors to the community. Eagerly responding to the friendly call they flocked in to do honor to the festive occasion. Prominent among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Reggio, Mr. and Mrs. McCallum, Mr. and Mrs. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart, Mr. and Mrs. Ring, Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Martin, and all the fair maidens and bachelors in the vicinity. Mr. Wilkinson and T. V. Bell furnished the foot inspiring strains and the happy couple treaded the measures with unabated zeal and activity, performing the graceful evolutions of the dreamy waltz, the gliding symmetrical movements of the quadrille and the nimble elastic of gyrations of the Red River jig they chased the flying hours with glowing feet. Mr. Hickey's lively, jolly style of calling off the sets seemed to infuse the flying figures with new life. After supper Madame Reggio gave a few selections on the piano, her exquisite rendering of some vocal pieces eliciting unbounded applause. Messrs. Webber, Gray, Magill, Bell and Casault also favored the company with some vocal music. The approach of morn warned the gay throng that it was time to break up so they tendered their thanks and adieu to their kind host and hostess, and started for home feeling that sociability is the charm of life.

But this was not all, for Messrs. Webber and Gray wished to let them see that the bachelors were not going to be left behind in their efforts to give joy and gladness to the merry season. On the 29th they gave an "At home" in Mr. Gray's house; their efforts were crowned with success and they placed before their guests supper that called forth encomiums from the fair sex on their accomplishments in the art de cuisine.

Mrs. Bell Heath followed the programme inaugurated by giving a "Free and Easy" in honor of N. B. Heath's birthday. It is needless to say that a very pleasant evening was spent for Mrs. Heath spared neither time nor trouble to make her guests enjoy themselves.

Douglas & Casault gave a bachelor's supper to wind up the galettes. G. Casault was bound not to take a back seat in the "Art de culinaire" and displayed an elaborate festal board. After supper the following toasts were proposed and responded to: The future of Leduc, R. T. Telford, Canada our home, Fred Gray, Commercial outlook, Wm. Douglas, Alberta, N. B. Heath, Social enjoyment, Wm. Cook, The Ladies, G. Casault.

May the people of Leduc continue on in the path of popularity and be always, ready to extend the hand of friendship and good will to each other.

WETASKIWIN.

A dramatic entertainment was given on Friday evening by the I. O. F. club. "The Turn of the Tide, or Wrecked in Port," was well performed by several members of the club, the lady characters being taken by Mrs. John Ambler, Miss E. Franklin, Miss M. Campbell and Miss M. Gould. The performers were much cheered for the excellent manner they discharged their parts. A supper was afterwards given at the Walker House, which was followed by a dance in Gould's hall. Dancing continued until three o'clock and every one spent a most enjoyable evening.

An annual meeting of ratepayers was held on Thursday, when A. D. Foster was elected school trustee in the place of Mr. Gould who had retired. L. A. Van Decar was elected school auditor.

On Monday's train Miss McHale arrived from Spokane City, Washington, to be married to Carl Wabbel of Dried Meat lake, near Wetaskiwin, rancher. The happy pair drove to the Indian reserve on Friday last and were married by Rev. Mr. German.

On Thursday a small blizzard blew the snow in deep drifts and spoiled the excellent sleighing for some days.

Mr. Lambert has just completed the erection of a new butcher shop which he will open immediately.

FORT SASKATCHEWAN, ALBERTA.

The ball given by "47" troop, N. W. M. P., on the night of 4th instant, was a grand success. A bad storm had set in on the 3rd, and kept up until the afternoon of the 4th, and in consequence the roads were very heavy, and everybody here was afraid that not many guests from a distance would venture such a long drive, but we were agreeably surprised when at 8:30 a.m. load after sleigh load, kept driving in until at 9 o'clock when the ball opened with the Circassian circle. Edmonton and other outlying points were well represented. The music was very good indeed, the floor properly waxed, and the room handsomely decorated and well lighted, the whole making a happy combination. Supper was served at 12:30, after which dancing was resumed and kept up until about 5 o'clock. The universal verdict being that that the ball was one of the most enjoyable ever had at Fort Saskatchewan.

Notwithstanding the cold weather, the steam threshers are still hard at work out in the Beaver Hills settlement. Reports from all the farms being, yields very good.

The Rev. Mr. McQueen held service here in the Presbyterian church, and preached a good sermon, to a large congregation, last night.

Our school reopens to-day, with Miss Hetherington as teacher.

8th January, 1894.

The regular meeting of Friendship Lodge No. 7, I. O. O. F. took place on Tuesday night. The special business of the evening was the installation of officers for the new term by Bro. F. J. Claxton, P. G., D. G. S.; assisted by Bro. John Wilson, P. G. and P. G. D. G. M. of Northern Idaho, acting as grand marshall, and the following acting officers: Bro. Geo. Hanna, warden; L. S. Baker, R. S.; C. J. C. Bow, P. S.; F. D. Fortin, treasurer. The names and ranks of the newly elected officers were: Bro. Alf. Brown, to be noble grand; R. Foster, vice grand; G. T. Bragg, recording secretary; W. H. Clark, permanent secretary, Jas. Goodridge, treasurer; O. T. Vanbuskirk, warden; F. D. Fortin, conductor; H. A. Finch, right scene supporter; M. McLeod, left scene supporter; Rev. Geo. Hanna, chaplain; E. A. Braithwaite, right supporter; noble grand; F. Marriaggi, left supporter; noble grand; W. R. West, inner guard; J. B. Little, outer guard; J. C. F. Bow, right supporter; vice grand; Jas. Bell, left supporter, vice grand. The lodge (the baby one of Alberta) has shown great advancement under the past officers during their short term, having in the three months it has been instituted increased its membership by ten. After the lodge had been closed Bro. Marriaggi invited the members to a luncheon which was put up in his usual perfect style and was thoroughly enjoyed by all who partook thereof. Songs, toasts and speech making were carried on to the early hours.

BEAVER LAKE.

The half-yearly examination of the MacKenzie school took place on Friday, December 22nd. The children have made rapid progress since the last examination, both in their studies and singing, and much credit is due to their teacher Mr. Stott for the state of proficiency which he has succeeded in bringing them to. Mr. MacKenzie, chairman of the board of school trustees, who was present made an appropriate and neat little speech. The proceedings closed by the distribution of the prizes to the children.

Divine service, Church of England, was held on Sunday, December 24th at 11 a.m. in honor of the Festival of the Nativity of our Lord. The school house was very tastefully decorated with evergreens for the occasion. There was a large congregation present and the school children sang music appropriate to the festival.

On Friday, December 29th, the settlers turned out "en masse" to be present at the Church of England Christmas tree. The tree looked very pretty and afforded much amusement both to the old and young. During the evening several good songs were sung. A very good supper was provided by the ladies of the settlement. The schoolroom was very neatly decorated with evergreens by the school children assisted by the school master. Everyone present spent a very enjoyable evening and much credit is due to those who made the entertainment such a success.

At the close of the entertainment a number of the people present indulged in dancing which was kept up till the small hours in the morning.
